

Free Online Seminar

Thursday 15th February 2024, 18:30-20:00

Online Student Research Seminar

Share your research experiences with student from other courses

Learn about a variety of topics and approaches in psychotherapy research!

Make connections with other students and colleagues to stay current on the work being done in the field!

The Society for Psychotherapy Research UK Chapter is proud to provide an Online Student Research Seminar for doctoral students in clinical/counselling psychology and psychotherapy in the UK on Thursday 15th February 2024 (6:30-8:00pm).

Three students present their research projects with discussion/feedback from the audience

Open to everyone – students, researchers, and practitioners!

Presentations

Exploring shame in modern psychotherapeutic settings: a practitioner's perspective

by Antonios Sardalos, Trainee Counselling Psychologist, University of the West of England

Mindfulness-based Interventions for Chinese Students: A Scoping Review Protocol

by Jiawan Zhong, PhD Student, Department of Psychological Sciences and Health, University of Strathclyde

“You Have to Work Twice as Hard” - A Free Association Narrative Interview Study Exploring the Experiences of Black, British People Living in the UK

by Catelyn Dorsey, Trainee Counselling Psychologist, University of the West of England

To register for this free event go here

You do not need to be a SPR member to present or attend this seminar, however, to learn more about the Society for Psychotherapy Research and the benefits of a SPR student membership, follow this link