

RUTGERS SERIES IN CHILDHOOD STUDIES

The Childhood Studies Series is dedicated to increasing our understanding of children and childhoods throughout the world, reflecting a perspective that highlights cultural dimensions of the human experience. The books are intended for students, scholars, practitioners, and those who formulate policies that affect children's everyday lives and futures.

To submit a proposal for a new book to be considered for the series, please contact:

Kimberly Guinta, Executive Editor
Rutgers University Press
(848) 445-7786,
Kimberly.guinta@rutgers.edu

And consult our website for guidelines:

Series webpage - <http://tinyurl.com/qpr42z7>

Submission guidelines - <http://tinyurl.com/p34v95p>

EDITORS:

Jill E. Korbin, Case Western Reserve University (jill.korbin@case.edu)
Elisa (EJ) Sobo, San Diego State University (esobo@mail.sdsu.edu)

EDITORIAL BOARD:

Meghan C. Halley, Palo Alto Medical Foundation Research Institute
David F. Lancy, Utah State University
David M. Rosen, Fairleigh Dickinson University
Rachael Stryker, California State University, East Bay
Thomas S. Weisner, University of California, Los Angeles

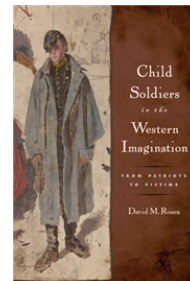

FOUNDING EDITOR: Myra Bluebond-Langner, UCL Institute of Child Health

RECENT TITLES

CITY KIDS: Transforming Racial Baggage

Maria Kromidas

CHILD SOLDIERS IN THE WESTERN IMAGINATION:
From Patriots to Victims

David M. Rosen

TRAFFICKED CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN THE
UNITED STATES:
Reimagining
Survivors

Elzbieta Gozdzik

CHILDHOOD IN A SRI LANKAN
VILLAGE: Shaping
Hierarchy and Desire

Bambi L. Chapin