

CMH Presents: Cultural Considerations in Mental Healthcare

February 2nd 7-9pm

McIntyre Medical Sciences Building Room 208/210

An experiential learning event for all members of the McGill Community interested in learning about different research and clinical applications of cultural considerations in areas of mental healthcare. The McGill Student Association for Collaborative Mental Healthcare (CMH) creates open-minded and respectful interdisciplinary spaces.

The two featured presenters are:

Daina Crafa, PhD Candidate in Integrated Neuroscience Program
topic: The influence of culture and the social world on patients with psychiatric disorders, in terms of both behavior and brain processes

Sumin Na, PhD Candidate in Counselling Psychology topic: Reducing mental illness stigma among East Asian women using Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT)

<http://cmhmccgill.wixsite.com/collaborative>